Most Expensive Hurricane Season Ever

We are approaching the end of hurricane season and this year has been an active one. 2017 proved to be the most expensive Hurricane season according to Bloomberg with over $202 billion in damages. Although the most notorious storms were Hurricane Harvey, Irma and Maria, it is important to note there were over 17 named storms, 10 of which became hurricanes. Though there have been more named storms in the past, the devastation this year versus prior years far exceeds anything we have ever seen.

The link below provides the full story from Bloomberg:

All Industry Day

Last month we shared some details of our I-Day event held on October 20, 2017 the New Jersey and Central Jersey Chapters joined forces again this year to deliver the 49th annual I-Day. In case you missed it, we've got you covered. Check out our Facebook page below where Matthew Struck, the Chapter's President elect recorded a video memorializing the day.

Next year marks the 50th anniversary of the New Jersey Chapters' All-Industry Day. We would like member input on the date and any suggestions you have to make this an extra special event. Be on the lookout for a survey link coming to your email. In the meantime, we invite you to send your thoughts and ideas to NJCPCUlday@gmail.com. What topics may be of interest? What historical I-Day activities should be commemorated? Is there anyone/organization who stands out as having made a significant impact on the industry or I-Day?

Upcoming Good Works

We are pleased to let you know the chapter board has approved a December Good Works contribution to be made to Sierra House, helping young women open the door to self-sufficiency. <https://www.sierrahouse.org/> Be on the lookout for photos in next month's Chaptergram.
